

Argument/Opinion

Grade 6

Dear Teachers, Parents, and School Board,

The children in my class have been talking about the proposal that some of you have made which is whether or not our school should participate in the national “Shut Down Your Screen” week. I don’t think that if we did that, it would have a positive effect on the children in our school. There are a few reasons that we might want to participate but I weighed it out and I don’t think that we should participate. These are the reasons.

One reason that I don’t think that our school should participate in the national “Shut Down Your Screen” week is that when we can use computers, we can get assignments done faster during the school day so that we can move on to other things. For example, when you are given a task to type, if you write it by hand, it will take a much longer time than if we just decided to type it. If we are given an assignment that we have to do research on, we can usually get a lot more useful information from the internet than even from a book sometimes. Also, we will be able to move on to our next subject much faster because our research or typing will be finished.

Another reason that I don’t think we should shut down our screens for a week is because the Internet is the most reliable source for information. In the article “Is Google Making Us Stupid” it said the internet has the world’s best images, writing and ideas. That means that it will have better, more honest and reliable information than even a book. The internet lets us expand our range of thinking and see things in a different

Introduces a claim:
Introduction gives context for the proposal about “Shut Down Your Screen Week”

States focus / claim

Organizes the reasons and evidence clearly

Supports the claim with clear reasons and relevant evidence.
Evidence here is from writer's own experience, and demonstrates an understanding of the topic

Uses words, phrases, and clauses to clarify the relationships among claims and reasons

Establishes and maintains a reasonably formal style way from possibly someone else’s perspective. The internet’s information lets us think better and faster. Some people say that the internet is not helping us learn and not making us brilliant but I don’t believe that is the case. I’m only eleven years old and I have already learned things off the internet like how solar power works and how animals like dolphins survive so that is obviously a myth. Google and the internet gives us ready and free access to information on just about anything.

Acknowledges counterclaims, then rebuts with clear reasons and relevant, credible evidence and reasoning from the writer’s own experience

The last reason that I think that we shouldn’t participate is because overall, calling, emailing, texting, or video chatting is more efficient. It takes less time and we are in the twenty-first century. We live in a time when it is a very normal thing to call or text someone instead of writing to them or just going to visit them. It might seem overwhelming and people might say that it is making us stupid but I find it fun and interesting to explore. I don’t think that I could go a week without music or TV! I couldn’t do it! I know for certain people this might not be the route that they want to take and that is fine but this world is only going to get more tech-like, it really is.

Supports the claim with clear reasons and relevant evidence. Evidence here is from writer’s own experience and demonstrates an understanding of the topic

As you can see, these are the reasons that I believe that we shouldn’t participate in the “Shut Down Your Screen” week.

Provides a concluding statement that follows from the argument presented

Your friend,

In this on-demand assignment, students were asked to take a position on whether their school should participate in the national “Shut Down Your Screen Week.” This writer begins by offering some context concerning the issue, and then asserts the claim that in her view the school should not participate.

The writer develops her claim with several reasons, which she supports with some relevant, credible evidence, demonstrating her understanding of the topic. The evidence in this piece comes from her own experience. The writer organizes her ideas clearly and supports her claim with logical reasoning. In addition, she acknowledges a counterclaim and then refutes the counterclaim with support for her own position, even though use of counterclaim is not stated in the Standards for this grade level. Throughout the essay, the writer uses words, phrases, and clauses as transitions to clarify the relationships among claims, reasons, and evidence, and to create cohesion. The conclusion follows from the argument presented.

The writer maintains a reasonably formal style throughout the piece.

Student writing, even at a high level, is rarely perfect! As children learn to write, many times they will make errors because they are learning new words, phrases and writing skills. Creativity and exploration should be encouraged!

This sample of student writing, aligned to the Common Core and annotated to show its strengths, is drawn from the In Common project. You can find more writing samples and learn more here:

<http://achievethecore.org/page/507/in-common-effective-writing-for-all-students>